AdventHealth Develops Internship for Andrews School of Architecture & Interior Design

AdventHealth and the Andrews School of Architecture & Interior Design (SAID) have introduced a significant new annual internship that will be available to one SAID student annually who has completed their fourth year in the program. The selected intern each year will gain broad experience across a range of key disciplines in the fields of administration, architecture, urban design and interior design.

The first internship will be awarded during the 2023-24 school year, with the internship taking place May 13–Aug. 2, 2024.

No Pit Too Deep, No Burden to Great, For the Power In The Blood

Late one evening, Pastor Ron Woolsey was texted by a young man who had visited the Jesus and Wholistic Sexuality event at Village Seventh-day Adventist Church. The message said, "A burden has rolled off my shoulders."

Woolsey is one of the co-founders of Coming Out Ministries, who partnered with Village Church and Know His Love Ministries for a week of spiritual emphasis. The three-in-one event was comprised of a week of evening meetings for all, a two-day pastors and elder's conference, and a five-day private event called Coming Together Live. Topics included abortion, pornography, family and parenting dynamics regarding LGBTQ issues, personal journeys of victory, and spiritual care. Some of the presentations were given by people who wanted to give the help and resources they wish they had received when going through their own trials.

Richly Blessed, Richly Blessing: George Wells' Legacy of Giving

When a Chicago church member made a large donation to the Shiloh Church school, the extraordinary act of generosity made headlines in the Lake Union Herald.

For those who know the donor George Wells, a longtime supporter of Adventist education, it wasn't a surprise to learn he was the benefactor who signed the $100,000 check.

While large church donations are not unusual, the story of a 5th-grade dropout who grows up to become a successful businessman and gives back to his community is proof a heart grateful to God can bless the lives of many.

This Month in Adventist History

This chalk drawing was presented to Pioneer Memorial Church at Andrews University in recognition of having the largest group in attendance at Bill Gothard's Basic Youth Conflicts Seminar in Chicago, Illinois, the last week of November 1973. Several hundred Lake Union Adventists attended the week-long, thirty-hour series of evangelistic lectures, and about 200 came from PMC. The celebratory drawing was received by associate pastor Anthony Castelbuono and the Lukes, who organized the PMC group. Pictured left to right: Anthony Castelbuono, Mrs. Luke, and Jim Luke.
